

Klove encourages me daily with counsel on parenting and positive moral issues. It gives my kids music to listen to that is encouraging a positive way of life that encourages reaching out to the community. Klove is the only positive radio station that my kids will listen to. The songs they sing while they are listening are all positive. The songs on the other stations are all about self, sex and drinking. Could we please keep the one positive voice on the radio that are kids will listen to. What would you prefer to have running through your child's mind?
